Belinda Aye, 17, goes clothes shopping at least every other week. More often than not, she comes home with a bag full of bargains.

Her favorite stores are Forever 21 and H&M, because they have a hip vibe, a good selection of trendy outfits, and low prices. One thing she doesn't usually consider: where her clothes are made and by whom.

"If I see a tag, then I'll think about where my clothes came from, but other than that, not really," says Aye, who
